

TURN FROM EVIL BUT NOT THE FIGHT

“Many years ago a man walked the Earth and he had great power over the elements. He was known as a wise man and one that was looked to in times of indecision and trouble. His hands were fully human but his spirit fully divine, and he walked in the presence of the Great Spirits of the Divine Realm as he carried out his duties as a leader of the people.

At the time that he lived there was a great presence of evil and evil manifest in physical ways, and in the physical bodies of some of the inhabitants of Earth. The Creation had become compromised and there were men of great stature who were considered to be the gods of the land. They held power over the masses but did not approach the man with the great spirit in any confrontational way, for they knew that he was in God’s favor and any challenge to him would result in failure and destruction.

This man was Enoch, one of the few who did not die a physical death. He knew God and he trusted God and he lived by His Laws and Commands, and God gave him wisdom and power. His life was full and he lived for many years and had many offspring and he was greatly favored by God.

However there was a time when the evil ones come to him for intercession and blessings, and he considered their requests, for their intentions were good...even though they had the curse of evil. After due consideration, Enoch took their requests to God...and God would not listen, for Enoch’s intercession was for a cause of evil, although the specific action requested would have had a beneficial outcome.

God therefore, gave him a very important lesson that would be good for all alive to know today. Make no compromises with evil, even if it appears to have a good or beneficial outcome, for advancing or coalescing with any form of evil bears no fruit and will empower the evil forces. Flee from the very appearance of evil, and have nothing to do with it in your life...for it corrupts all that it touches, and you as a human cannot avoid the corruption, you will fall prey if only for a time; however all sin has eternal consequences and the expiation must always meet the far reaching effects of the sin.

To deal with evil, one is best to work around it and attempt to heal the ones who have been influenced by it, and pray for all who cannot discern it or who willfully embrace it. This allows the warriors in the spiritual realm to fight the battles on your behalf, and they are much better equipped to battle evil forces than a human is. Mighty intercession in prayer is your best weapon against sin and evil because if the one praying is righteous, holy, and pure, the prayers go directly to the Divine Realms and they are considered to be a command if in the Will of God and they are immediately circulated to the appropriate angels and spirits in order to facilitate the requests.

You have a 'war chest' at your disposal, and to fail to use it does great harm to you and to those for whom your intercession would be made. The divine warriors always stand ready to fight and there is no lack of them, so use them frequently; whenever you perceive a situation of evil intrusion or sin, put your band of warriors on the case and do not stop your mighty prayers until the situation is completed.

Know as well that as you open these battles you also are influenced by them to a degree, and you must therefore keep yourself 'washed in The Blood' and pure of thought and action, for you want to have constant covering by God as you battle for His causes.

Consider this your battle plan and use it often, for every victory for God could add to the numbers of the saved and for this God rewards greatly.

Be at peace, but prepare for spiritual war."
